Church History

The Protestant Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, Northeast corner of Broad and Tioga Streets, was organized and admitted to the Convention of the Diocese in May, 1850, and partly erected in the year 1852.

St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church of Kenderton, City of Philadelphia, was formed in the year 1870, and met in a hall, "Kenderton Hall," at Twentieth and Tioga Streets, during its two years of independent existence.

In 1872 a union of these two parishes was effected and the name and site of the older was retained.

The earliest record of the history of our parish is found in a brief historical sketch, which was written by Mr. George Blight, and reads: "The first effort to establish a Church at Rising Sun Village was made on the 24th day of August, 1848, St. Bartholomew's Day; but for many reasons it was abandoned. It was proposed to adopt the name of the Church of St. Bartholomew; a name suggested by the day on which the first meeting was held. Before renewed efforts were made to form a parish this name was adopted by another church organization in a neighborhood district."

The next endeavor to organize the parish was made in 1850 by the Rev. Thomas J. Davis. A lot at the northeast corner of Broad and Tioga Streets was given by Mrs. A. B. Smith and stone for a church edifice was donated by Mr. George Blight. The response to an appeal to members of the Episcopal Church in the city with the contributions of those in the vicinity amounted to a sufficient sum for the erection of the church building in 1852.

The original rectory was built in the years 1855-1856, and the Rev. Thomas J. Davis continued to live there until his death in 1886.

The Parish continued under the rectorship of the Rev. Thomas J. Davis during the years 1850-1872, although a search of the archives fail to reveal evidence of a minute book or record of any transactions, however the writer feels confident that much good was accomplished through the influence of this little village parish.

On March 28th, 1870; a meeting of the residents of Kenderton was held at the residence of Mr. Thomas Maddock, Jr., for the purpose of organizing a New Episcopal Church. Mr. Thomas Maddock was elected chairman, and Mr. Amos Knight, secretary. It was decided that the name of the proposed church should be St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church of Kenderton, City of Philadelphia.

The hall at Twentieth and Tioga Streets (Kenderton Hall) was rented for the services.

Different clergymen officiated at the services for several months. The Rev. J. DeWolf Perry, D.D., then Rector of Calvary Church, Germantown, often conducted services in the evening.

On July 18, 1870, a call was extended to the Rev. Joseph R. Moore, who was Rector of the Church of the Crucifixion, to become Rector of the parish. The Rev. Mr. Moore accepted the call and entered upon his duties in September, 1870.

At the meeting on June 6, 1871, a communication was read from the Church of the Resurrection requesting the union of the two parishes. The terms proposed were not satisfactory to the vestry of St. George's, and the union was declined. Negotiations were resumed from time to time until the union was effected, March 22, 1872.

The Rev. Thomas J. Davis tendered his resignation to take effect Easter Monday, April 1, 1872.

The Rev. Joseph R. Moore was elected rector to assume charge of the combined parishes on the same date.

In 1870 a committee was appointed to erect a new Church edifice. The new building, which occupied the space of the present chancel and adjoining rooms, was completed in 1872. This building with improvements on the ground made it necessary to place a mortgage on the property to the amount of $3,000, which was assumed by the combined churches. An annuity of $300 was granted to the Rev. Mr. Davis during his lifetime. He was also allowed the use of the rectory while he lived. He died July 2, 1886.

The Rev. Mr. Moore continued his devoted service as rector until his death on March 4, 1908.

During the summer of 1908 a call was extended to Rev. James O. McIlhenny, then rector of Christ Church, Woodbury, N. J., to become rector of the parish.

Rev. Mr. McIlhenny accepted the call and entered upon his rectorate on November 1, 1908.

Rev. Mr. McIlhenny's selection and acceptance proved highly pleasing to all. Young, enthusiastic, with an abundant measure of business sagacity and clarity, made him an invaluable leader at that particular time.

During the rectorship of Rev. Mr. Moore the lower story of the nave of the present church edifice was erected in 1893.

The parish house built in the year 1904 provided for the erection within its walls of a chapel with a seating capacity of forty, with altar and many of the altar ornaments, formally in use in the original church edifice.

In the parish house also was provided an auditorium for Sunday School and Guild rooms. In the basement space was provided for entertainments, with a fairly equipped kitchen.

In the early part of 1910 the Vestry decided to complete the Church in memory of the former rector, the Rev. Joseph R. Moore, and appealed to the members of the parish for contributions to this end. So prompt and generous were the responses that work on the Church was begun on August 1st of that year and completed in time to permit the resumption of services in the Church on the first Sunday of March, 1911.

The completed and enlarged edifice, built at a cost of approximately $100,000 (with seating capacity of 575), provided for the erection of the clerestory with space for twenty-six memorial windows, Indiana lime stone side walls, replacing glazed tile. The chancel was enriched by the endowment of the Altar, the Reredos, Almonry, Credence, Bishop's Sedelium, Clergy Sedelia, Pulpit and Lectern all beautifully carved in caen stone.

On September 14, 1914, the Rector, Wardens and Vestry took title to the property, 3517 North Broad Street, for use as a rectory. It was decided to rebuild it and make its design harmonize with the other church buildings. Thus was provided one of the most beautiful houses on Broad Street as a commodious and delightful residence for those who may serve as rectors of the parish.

The beauty of the Church was further enhanced in the month of January, 1919, by the carving of the Capitals of the columns.

The sixtieth anniversary of our parish was marked by the completion of the Church, and the erection of a new rectory was a fitting monument of the commemoration of the sixty-fifth anniversary.

The new organ and the extinguishment of the remainder of the debt, $2,000, marked observance of the seventieth anniversary.

The year 1925 marked the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of our parish.

The activities of the various organizations had outgrown the accommodations provided in the original Parish House, and plans for the erection of an additional building were undertaken and completed in 1925, according to the design and under the supervision of Robert L. Gill, one of our members, as architect, at a cost of $60,000.

This completes our building program and makes for us an effective group of churchly edifices.

At a special meeting of the Vestry held on Wednesday, September 14, 1938, the Rev. James O. McIlhenny, D.D., presented his resignation as rector to take effect on the coming of his successor. Dr. McIlhenny stated that having reached the age of retirement and with the first of November as the thirtieth anniversary of the advent of his coming as rector to the parish, it seemed an appropriate time to retire.

The Vestry after discussion accepted his resignation with sincere regret.

The Rev. James Odgers McIlhenny, D.D., departed this life July 29, 1939.

At a meeting of the Vestry held in the Parish House November 22, 1938, the committee appointed to recommend a successor to our retiring rector reported that they were unanimous in recommending the Rev. Arthur Murray, rector of St. John's Church, North Adams, Mass.

Rev. Mr. Murray is a graduate of Yale University and of our own Divinity School in Philadelphia.

The recommendation of the committee met with immediate approval by the members of the Vestry, and a call was extended to Rev. Arthur Murray to become rector of our parish.

The Rev. Arthur Murray accepted the call and entered upon his rectorate on January 1, 1939.

The new rector has brought to the parish in his work a cultured mind, a cheery personality, a broad and liberal spirit and pleasing gifts in the preaching of the Gospel.

With the coming of our present esteemed rector, the Rev. Arthur Murray, in January, 1939, whose acceptance made him the fourth rector of the Resurrection since the Church was organized in May, 1850. The three preceding rectors served an average of thirty years each. These are unusually long rectorships, and are undoubtedly due largely to continuity in service of the laity. An illustration of which, by referring to the list of Vestrymen, we find the names of seventeen, each of whom has served the parish for more than twenty years, an evidence of the lack of disagreements and dissensions among our people.

THE VESTRY.
